McGuire and Thomas Pheasant Debut a Mediterranean-Inspired Outdoor Collection for Spring 2026

The 19-Piece Line Features Sculptural Frames, Travertine Tabletops, and Ergonomic Comfort with Classical Greek and Roman Influences

HIGH POINT, NC (April 2026) – McGuire, a pioneer of naturally luxurious fine furniture, is proud to unveil its Spring 2026 collection in collaboration with longtime partner, Thomas Pheasant. Evoking the timeless beauty of ancient Greece and Rome, the outdoor line comprises 19 furniture designs featuring sculptural, hammered frames with generous upholstery, beautifully crafted travertine, and ergonomic seating for enduring support. The refined yet inviting collection effortlessly blends Pheasant’s elegant style with McGuire’s legacy of approachable luxury.

“We are thrilled to introduce Thomas Pheasant’s latest outdoor collection for McGuire, which brings together his incredible creativity and artistic vision with McGuire’s longstanding commitment to quality and craftsmanship,” said Eric Graham, President of Baker-McGuire. “Each piece was thoughtfully designed to elevate the experience of outdoor living. The collection feels timeless, with subtle Mediterranean references that give it a sense of history and place. We are honored to debut it this season and share it with our clients and partners.”

Born from the traditional forms of ancient Greece and Rome, the Thomas Pheasant for McGuire Outdoor Collection reimagines outdoor furniture with light modern elegance and the masterful artistry of Mediterranean antiquity. Pieces from the collection draw inspiration from the architectural grandeur of the Villa Medici in Rome, the sculptural lines of the ancient Klismos chair, and the terraced hills of ancient civilizations. Showcasing McGuire’s signature style and use of natural materials, the collection pairs slender blackened hammered stainless steel frames with travertine tabletops and ergonomically designed seating, creating pieces that are simultaneously comfortable, functional, and visually striking.

“It has been so wonderful to collaborate again with the McGuire team on another collection together,” said Pheasant. “I drew inspiration from a trip I took to the Villa Medici in Rome – I was captivated by the Mediterranean landscapes, iconic sculptures, and culture. I envisioned each piece to feel both inviting and sophisticated, capturing the serenity and artistry of the classical world while creating something fresh and timeless for today’s outdoor spaces.”
